

The Whiskey Bottles

The Whiskey Bottles, based out of Colorado, have released their debut album, Ain't No Crime. Consisting of twelve original songs, the band focused on writing strong hooks and melodies, hearkening back to the singer-songwriters of the 70's. Featuring several guest musicians, the songs indirectly acknowledge heartland Americana from Neil Young and Gram Parsons as well as the new wave of rockers such as Lucinda Williams and Ryan Adams. The album features a broad spectrum of music, from the juiced-up, "Blackjack Betty", the twangy "Love Is Never Easy", to the introspective title track. Songs from the album have been played on KBCO, KRFC, KAFM, KBUT, and more.

"Certainly one of the more popular bands at the Boulder Outdoor Cinema over the past five years. They do a mixture of kicky music mixed with lilting ballads and something about that combo of alt-country deliciousness really clicked with the audience." - Boulder Outdoor Cinema
