The Whiskey Bottles Release Debut Album

The Whiskey Bottles, based out of Colorado, released their debut album, Ain't No Crime, on December 31, 2010. Recorded at Brown Note Digital Recording Studios in Erie, CO, Ain't No Crime aims to establish The Whiskey Bottles as the premier Americana band in the Denver metro area. The album can be purchased online at all major retail websites and at www.thewhiskeybottles.com.

Ain't No Crime consists of twelve original songs, each showcasing the diverse talent in this versatile band. The band focused on writing strong hooks and melodies, hearkening back to the singer-songwriters of the 70's. Featuring several guest musicians, the songs indirectly acknowledge heartland Americana from Neil Young and Gram Parsons as well as the new wave of alt-country rockers such as Lucinda Williams and Ryan Adams. The debut album features a broad spectrum of music, from the juiced-up, "Blackjack Betty", the twangy "Love Is Never Easy", to the introspective title track. Songs from the album have been played on KBCO, KRFC, KFAM, KBUT, and more. Westword Magazine says it's "...absolutely brimming with equal amounts of grit and twang...a solid debut."

Having been a mainstay as the house band at Boulder Outdoor Cinema for several years, Ain't No Crime places The Whiskey Bottles as the local go-to band for musical entertainment.
